TODAY'S READINGS

First Reading -- My face I did not shield from buffets and spitting knowing that I shall not be put to shame. Isaiah 50:4–7

Responsorial Psalm -- “My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?” Psalm 22

Second Reading -- Jesus emptied himself, and accepted death on a cross. Philippians 2:6–11

Gospel Reading -- The Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ. Mark 14:1—15:47

Introduction to the Liturgy of the Day

We begin the celebration of Holy Week by calling down God’s blessing upon the symbol that today’s feast is named for: the palm branches that were used to welcome our Lord to Jerusalem. “Hosanna!” the crowds accompanying him cried out, praising the Son of Man as he rode into the holy city. “Hosanna!” the residents called out, eager to witness firsthand what this miracle worker would do. We sing hosannas today, as we enter the holiest week of the year, the week when we recall Jesus’ passion, death, and resurrection.

The Palm Sunday liturgy always focuses on the Passion, but we begin with a short reading from Isaiah, who prophesied of a person who suffered terribly for faithfully speaking God’s word. Sound familiar? Indeed, Saint Paul testifies that Jesus “humbled himself . . . to the point of death.” Let today’s scripture passages remind us of the physical and emotional suffering that our Lord endured in order to truly proclaim God’s word.

PALM SUNDAY

of the Lord's Passion

What more can be said about today's Gospel?

We hear the proclamation of this Gospel in several voices, to help us enter into these final days of Jesus' earthly life. The scheming of the chief priests and scribes before the Passover, the woman with the alabaster jar of oil prefiguring the anointing of his body for burial, Judas' plan to betray him, the Last Supper and Jesus' knowledge that he would soon be betrayed, the institution of the Eucharist so that he could remain with us until the end of time, Jesus' prediction that the apostles would be scattered and their faith shattered. And then, all the events of Jesus' profound Passion and Death.

We see his generous Heart, his agonizing Heart, the Heart that moans silently for someone to keep vigil with him for even an hour, the Heart that does not hesitate or draw back from the terrible execution for love of the Father and of us. Throughout all this long suffering, we see Jesus remaining steadfast before the will of the Father and concerned with consoling and strengthening those around him.

We also hear Jesus cry out the first words of Psalm 22: "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" While we hear in that cry of his Heart the depths to which he was allowed to sink – to the sense of being forsaken by the Father, to the brink of despair – the psalm is really a painful prayer of hope. Jesus has certainly not given up on his relationship with the Father. He has not let go. Psalm 22 (which those at the foot of the Cross would have known well) begins with an accurate description of the scene on Calvary, from the vicious attack of Jesus' enemies, to the details of the suffering he endured, to the dividing of his clothes. But the psalm then reaches out to God to come and deliver, to save him from this torture, and then moves on to praise the Lord. In his utter agony, Jesus enters into our own suffering and reminds us to cling to hope and to continue to offer praise.

While part of Psalm 22 was heard today as the Responsorial Psalm, we might pause to pray the whole psalm some time during this Holy Week; it is a profound meditation on the words of Jesus' own agonizing Heart from the Cross. It gives us a glimpse of how low he descended into our own suffering, to redeem every last bit of physical, emotional, psychological, and spiritual pain for us.

In His Cross, because of the Resurrection, we are all freed to bear our own crosses with love and hope.

ARCHDIOCESE OF MIAMI

Holy Week Reflection

By Sr. Thea Bowman, FSPA

Let Us Resolve to Make This Week Holy

Let us resolve to make this week holy by claiming Christ's redemptive grace and by living holy lives.

The Word became flesh and redeemed us by his holy life and holy death. This week especially let us accept redemption by living grateful, faithful, prayerful, generous, just and holy lives.

Let us resolve to make this week holy by reading and meditating Holy Scripture. So often we get caught up in the hurry of daily living. As individuals and as families, reserve prime time to be with Jesus, to hear the cries of the children waving palm branches, to see the Son of Man riding on an ass' colt, to feel the press of the crowd, to be caught up in the "Hosannas" and to realize how the cries of acclamation will yield to the garden of suffering, to be there and watch as Jesus is sentenced by Pilate to Calvary, to see him rejected, mocked, spat upon, beaten, and forced to carry a heavy cross, to hear the echo of the hammer, to feel the agony of torn flesh and strained muscles, to know Mary's anguish as he hung three hours before he died.

We recoil before the atrocities of war, gang crime, domestic violence and catastrophic illness. Unless we personally and immediately are touched by suffering, it is easy to read Scripture and to walk away without contacting the redemptive suffering that makes us holy. The reality of the Word falls on deaf ears.

Let us take time this week to be present to someone who suffers. Sharing the pain of a fellow human will enliven Scripture and help us enter into the holy mystery of the redemptive suffering of Christ.

Let us resolve to make this week holy by participating in the Holy Weeks services of the church, not just by attending, but also by preparing, by studying the readings, entering into the spirit, offering our services as ministers of the Word or Eucharist, decorating the church or preparing the environment for worship.

Let us sing, "Lord, have mercy," and "Hosanna." Let us praise the Lord with our whole heart, soul, mind, and strength, uniting with the suffering church throughout the world – in Rome, and Northern Ireland, in Syria and Lebanon, in South Africa and Angola, India and China, Nicaragua and El Salvador, in Washington, D.C., and Jackson, Mississippi.

Let us break bread together, let us relive the holy and redemptive mystery. Let us do it in memory of Him acknowledging in faith his real presence upon our altars.

Let us resolve to make this week holy by sharing holy peace and joy within our families, sharing family prayer on a regular basis, making every meal a holy meal where loving conversations bond family members in unity, sharing family work without grumbling, making love not war, asking forgiveness for past hurts and forgiving one another from the heart, seeking to go all the way for love as Jesus went all the way for love.

Let us resolve to make this week holy by sharing holy peace and joy with the needy, the alienated, the lonely, the sick and afflicted, the untouchable.

Let us unite our sufferings, inconveniences and annoyances with the sufferings of Jesus. Let us stretch ourselves, going beyond our comfort zones to unite ourselves with Christ's redemptive work.

We unite ourselves with Christ's redemptive work when we reconcile, when we make peace, when we share the Good News that God is in our lives, when we reflect to our brothers and sisters God's healing, God's forgiveness, God's unconditional love.

Let us be practical reaching out across the boundaries of race and class and status to help somebody, to encourage and affirm somebody, offering to the young an incentive to learn and grow, offering to the downtrodden resources to help themselves. May our fasting be the kind that saves and shares with the poor, that actually contacts the needy, that gives heart to heart, that touches and nurtures and heals. During this Holy Week, when Jesus gave his life for love, let us truly love one another.

“Greater Love”

Last week our 8th grade students gathered with all 8th graders across the Archdiocese to participate in “Greater Love.” This is an annual event in which students gather to learn how to make moral decisions while respecting themselves and others.

Teachers Are Life Long Learners

We had a great opportunity to send two teachers to a conference at the University of Notre Dame this past weekend! Ms. Accilien and Mrs. Louisy attended the Excellence in Teaching Conference: Making Sense of a Mathematical World. We can't wait to implement some of the strategies they learned with our students!
